PROFILE

A creative operator who enjoys making ideas tangible.

International Business graduate, calligraphy-brand founder, content creator, customer-facing promoter, and procurement professional.

About me

I work comfortably across the creative and practical sides of a project. Through YY Ink Studio, I create handwritten products, shape booth presentation, manage social activity, speak with customers, and deliver live calligraphy experiences.

Independent badminton edits strengthened my instinct for pace and audience attention. Fragrance promotion developed my confidence in one-to-one recommendations. Procurement experience added structure in logistics, suppliers, contracts, tenders, and deadline-led coordination.

The brand

I founded YY Ink Studio to give traditional Chinese calligraphy a warm, approachable presence in contemporary markets and live events. The work moves from brush and paper to product selection, visual display, social content, customer conversation, and commissioned experiences.

My role

- Create original duilian, bookmarks, framed work, and seasonal pieces.
- Plan booth layouts that invite browsing and conversation.
- Share products and activity through Instagram and Xiaohongshu.
- Deliver live demonstrations and participant workshops.

Creative approach

I look for moments with immediate emotional or visual pull, then build a sequence that rewards attention quickly. This project sharpened my sense of rhythm, concise storytelling, and the difference between simply showing a highlight and shaping it for an audience.

Making traditional calligraphy engaging in a live setting.

Calligraphy activation and participant workshop

I helped transform calligraphy into an experience participants could watch, try, and take pride in. The work combined preparation, live demonstration, patient guidance, and an organized visual setup.

A workshop arranged for active participation.

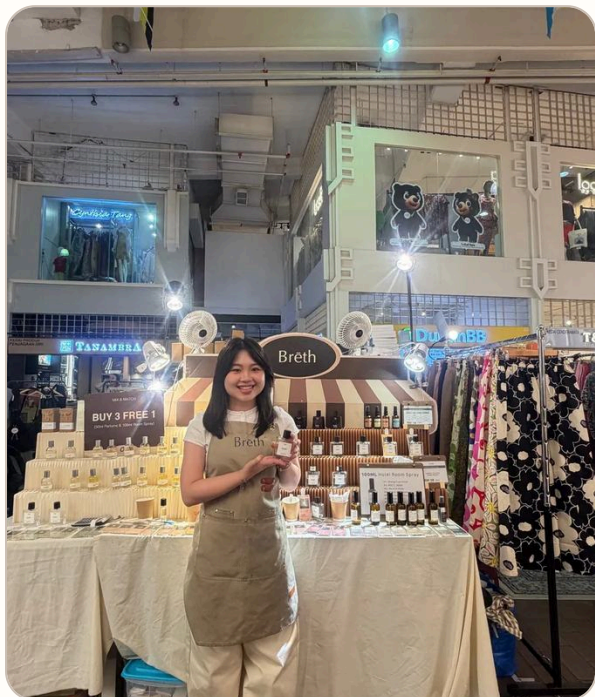

Finished pieces presented as part of the activation.

My contribution

Prepared materials and presentation, demonstrated brush technique, guided participants through the activity, and supported a welcoming flow from introduction to finished work.

Helping customers turn scent preferences into confident choices.

Customer experience

Across intermittent part-time shifts, I learned how much good fragrance retail depends on listening. I asked about preferences, moods, and occasions, then translated product notes and benefits into recommendations that felt relevant and easy to understand.

Booth support

I also contributed to demonstrations, promotions, product arrangement, visual merchandising, and the welcoming energy of the booth. My most recent Brëth shift was in August 2026.

A clear, inviting outdoor product display.

Communication

Explain scent profiles in relatable language and adjust the conversation to each customer's familiarity with fragrance.

Presentation

Keep products organized, easy to explore, and ready for demonstrations and promotional activity.

Creative energy supported by commercial discipline.

Available for content, social media, creative brand, customer experience, and event opportunities.
